SHORT SKIRTS PREVAIL FOR TRAVELING WEAR.

I am off for Paris and if the fashions prove as bewilderingly picturesque as the advance prophesies would indicate, I shall find much to delight my American readers—women who, I am proud to say, adapt and make their own the best of all nations' creations in the art of dressing.

At this season of the year, when the woman gives time and thought to her traveling attire, whether she be one of our honored bachelor maids of traditional American independence, who is taking the only outing her strenuous duties in office or college afford her, in the year, or one of the more favored ones who go to one after another of the fashionable resorts, the gown in which she arrives is of paramount importance, as in it she makes her first impression on the persons who may contribute to her popularity for the season.

The right clothes in the right place is the first evidence of well dressing and short skirts prevail for traveling wear. A plain tailor made suit in some serviceable material and color is one of the first items to be considered in planning the summer wardrobe. Plainly crumpled cloths are traditional for hard wear service, and among the variety of cloths thus processed mohair was the selection of the fashionable woman. The simple but stunning little gown I have illustrated for you, suitable alike for her of limited wardrobe allowance and her of extensive wardrobe, this frock of lush trous black, with its three "Nun's tucks" about the bottom of its prettily cut and short length skirt, is one of the most suitable models for traveling wear. Crumpled stamped on the back of the cloth insures imperviousness to rain or fog, both of which the wearer will be sure to encounter if her travel be in "Merrie England."

Hummel models in outing hats, one of which was selected to wear with the above described gown, and which is depicted in my illustration, show that the return to the very small hat predicted for the coming season is not to be with us yet. This black soft felt hat is a charmingly simple with its black silk draping and glossy raven wing, and another, a symphony in the shades of tan, expressed the acme of perfection in the Hummel tailored hat.

One would think the height of fastidiousness had been reached in lingerie, but with a lace for hand worked blouses, the majority being in the English eyelet embroidery, the conventional, they give the dress an expensive item in the dainty woman's outfit, and with the foundation of a perfectly fitted corset, such as the C. & B. A. for spirit, a heribones and a belaced corset cover for all things, avoid strong pink and blues in this same blousing, for they only serve to vulgarize a pretty gown, and a dainty white embroidered blouse mildly presents a charming picture of sweet dainty womanhood.

to serve them. The centerpiece of the table is fruit, upon which the main body of the luncheon is built. They follow the London dietary laws, which have almost driven appendicitis out of London.

It was to a reigning beauty of London during the present season that the king's physician gave his famous advice. "What shall I take for my complexion?" asked this beauty, in distress. "I am a sight."

"Take olive oil," said the physician. "Live on it, live in it, live with it. Eat it, drink it, dress your food with it, and don't do without it. Lubricate your system."

The beauty did as she was told, and her complexion improved. Meanwhile she ate no meat. She began to give health and beauty dinners, and the countess of Warwick, Mrs. George Cornwallis West, Lady Henry Somerset, and the princess of Pleas joined her. Today their vegetarian dinners are famous.

Not For Brain Workers.

"Do vegetables lead the brain sufficiently?" is a question often asked. To this many a brain worker will reply "No." So with them it is a question of brains vs. beauty. Would you rather be beautiful with little brains, or brainy and ugly? That is something for each individual to settle alone. Ruskin tried vegetarianism for three years, and finally gave it up, directing that all work done during that time be destroyed. Gladstone tried it three days and gave it up. Bismarck wanted to try it, but never did. King Edward thinks it good, but not for himself. All the American statesmen have had a whack at it, but few have stuck to it.

But from a pretty girl's standpoint, it clears the complexion and does a great many other things.

For the woman who cannot exercise much the quickly digested vegetable diet is ideal.

For a girl who is low spirited vegetables, nuts, olive oil, and fruits lift the spirits.

For a woman who wants a peachy and cream complexion cooked grains are best. They clear the skin.

For the woman with a dull cuticle the all milk and vegetable diet will act like a scrubbing brush. And that is the reason why health and beauty diet dinners are popular.

No Reason For Two Trips.

Patrick's wife was "telling" and Patrick put on his Sunday best, and walked four miles to the doctor's house to tell him about her.

"Now," said the doctor, when he had prepared some medicine, "here is something for your wife. I've written the directions on the bottle, and I want her to try it faithfully for a fortnight. Then, if it doesn't relieve her, come to me again, and I will give you another prescription."

"Now, doctor, see here," said Patrick, standing straight and looking grimly at the physician. "If you have your doubts of this curin' Mary, as it's ivent you have, by the way you spake, you're givin' to give me first what you're givin' to give me last!"—Yours, Companion.

HOME MADE BLOUSES.

How You Can Make Them at a Cost of $1.69.

The midsummer bargain ready made blouses are "transparent" which reveal ribbons and underwear edgings in a way no longer sanctioned by fashion and good taste. A blouse which strikes the happy medium between thinness and thickness can be made at home for one-third of the price at which it can be found even when marked down to the extent which prevails in the better class waists which come in the hot too sheer Persian lawn. A little waist made of this material and trimmed with tucks and with four medallions outlined with narrow white, and all in a really fine quality, can be gotten up for just $1.69.

First it will take three and one-half yards of lawn, of which a lovely quality is to be had for 25 cents. Four medallions of fine quality can be bought for 40 cents. Three yards of insertion at 10 cents will be enough to edge these and put two rows in the collar.

Make the front of the yoke of the medallions and join the lower part of the blouse to it by fine tucks which extend half way down. Make the back without yoke and with lightweight running tucks. Little mercerized buttons, of which it takes just one dozen to fasten it nicely up the back, can be bought for 12 cents, which is the last item in the list of expenditures.

In tucking the strips for the back cut them long enough to take off a cuff of tucking from each piece for the sleeves. The style, as well as the price, of this sort of a blouse is far and away ahead of the ready made ones, while the time taken in making is about half that used in making the ordinary shirt waist, all of which comes of the simple little straight collar which is sewed on and the lack of details of cuffs and facings which are used on the ordinary shirt waist. In making the lap in the back to a waist of this kind fold the selvedge edge over for an inch to form the hem and lay the two pieces together, putting the pattern on so that it is just a half an inch back from the fold. This brings the lap of just width enough to correspond nicely with the small buttons and buttonholes. Medallions with square outlines can be edged with the insertion if arranged as shown in the picture more easily than they can be hand made that are circular.

Lady Dufferin of India was once addressed as "your eminency." An Abyssinian missive came to the late Queen Victoria, addressed to the "Queen of Kings, Empress of the Great Red Sea." Her highland tenants used to say: "Come, away in and sit down, Queen Victoria."
